

Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has been absolutely wonderful--please don't implement anything that would lessen its effectiveness. My time at home is very rarely interrupted by telemarketers--probably once a month or less now! In the past it could be several times in an evening at certain times of the year.